SANTIAGO DE CHILE

WEATHER AND CLIMATE

Santiago's climate is temperate, with some continental features. In winter –June through August– there are heavy but short rains. The temperature doesn't get lower 2° C (34° F).

It only snows in the mountain range area, specifically at the winter resorts, snowfalls often starting in the second fortnight of June, and lasting until the first fortnight of October.

Wool or waterproof clothing and umbrella are recommended during these seasons.

THE AIRPORT AND THE FAO HEADQUARTERS

The distance from the airport to the FAO regional office (Dag Hammarskjöld 3241 Av.) is about 20 km. The office is located in Vitacura, an important commercial area surrounded by restaurants, hotels and services.
